Mrs. Sarah Jane Moody.

After an illness of little more than a week Mrs. Sarah Jane Moody, wife of Mr. R. J. Moody, passed away at her home on East Main street Thursday afternoon. At her bedside when the end came were all the members of the family, the out of town members having been summoned when it was seen several days before that the end was near.

Mrs. Moody was born near Dothan in 1850 and was in her 71st year. She was the daughter of the late Reuben Jackson. In 1877 she was married to Mr. R. J. Moody and moved to her husband's place near the Zion section of the county where she resided for many years and raised a family of sons and daughters. About ten years ago she and Mr. Moody left the old home place and moved to Dillon where she continued to reside until claimed by death last Thursday.

Mrs. Moody was a consistent member of the Methodist church, having united with that church early in life, and until seized with the infirmities of age she was a regular attendant and did her part in the work of the Master.

Besides her husband Mrs. Moody is survived by the following children: R. L. Moody, Jack O. Moody, O. F. Moody, Mrs. J. F. Dail, F. O. Moody all of Dillon and Prof. Reuben Moody, who is engaged in teaching in Virginia.

The funeral was held Friday afternoon, the interment being made at Mt. Holly Cemetery. A large concourse of friends and relatives followed the remains to their last resting place.

A VICTIM OF ANTHRAX.

Mr. George R. Harrelson Dies While Waiting for Train at A. C. L. Station.

Mr. George R. Harrelson, a well-known farmer living three miles east of the Stone Bridge, died Monday afternoon while waiting at the Coast Line station to take the train for Florence, the cause of his death being a malignant case of anthrax, a rare disease in this country.

Mr. Harrelson arose at his usual hour Sunday morning and was in the best of health. About noon that day a small pimple appeared on his upper lip to which he paid very little attention. Later in the afternoon the side of his face began to swell and by Monday he was suffering intensely. A physician was called and he realized at once that Mr. Harrelson was in a serious condition. Quick preparations were made to take Mr. Harrelson to a hospital and he was brought to Dillon immediately. While waiting for the southbound train at the Coast Line station Mr. Harrelson's condition grew worse so rapidly that the attending physicians knew the end was only a matter of a few moments and three minutes before the train arrived he passed away.

Anthrax is a disease which is very rare in this country. It is a European disease, but has made its appearance in America since the war, but only to a limited extent. It is a germ disease and very fatal. It has all the symptoms of a carbuncle, but progresses more rapidly. It is accompanied by high fevers and is followed in a few hours by general collapse. How and when Mr. Harrelson contracted the disease is not known. It is an infectious disease and can be contracted from a shaving brush improperly sterilized at the time of manufacture or other bristles that come in contact with the skin.

Mr. Harrelson was one of the best citizens of his community and his untimely death is greatly deplored by all who knew him. He was a quiet, courteous and unassuming man who attended strictly to his own affairs and proposed He owned a splendid place three miles beyond the Stone Bridge on the Dillon-Lake View road which he managed with thrift and industry.

The body was taken in charge by Undertaker B. F. Williams who after preparing it for burial accompanied it to Mr. Harrelson's late home that night. The funeral was held the following afternoon.

Mr. Harrelson is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mrs. Lacey Rogers, of Dillon.

At a meeting of the directors of the Bank of Clio held Tuesday, H. N. Bennett was elected president to succeed W. F. Cross and J. R. Dye of Chester was elected cashier to succeed H. S. Bethea. Messrs. Cross and Bethea have been president and cashier of the bank for many years.

Attention, Disabled Ex-Service Men.

The Clean-up Squad composed of government experts will be in Marion, S. C., at the Court House, October 10th, 11th and 12th and every ex-service person is called upon to help in getting the disabled ex-service person there so that they may be examined for compensation or those that have already applied for compensation and have not received aid may be helped in getting their claims through.

Meals and lodging will be furnished to claimants while at squad headquarters and transportation will be furnished those whose medical examination shows that they need hospital treatment. The purpose of this squad is to help in securing compensation where it is needed, the hospitalization of claimants that need it, information and adjustment of your work risk insurance. All ex-service men who desire this help are asked to take their discharge certificates and all government communications that in any way might help in establishing their claims for this compensation.

Anyone desiring further information in regards to this are asked to call on the Post Commander or Adjutant of this Post. Don't forget the dates, Oct. 10th, 11th and 12th. Help your disabled "Buddy" get there if he has no way to get to Marion.
